Subject: RE: TASC Call Agenda

Dear Judy,

Thank you for your e-mail. It is to bad the USEPA chose to throw their agenda for the Ringwood Mines Superfund Site conference call together at the last minute, this was because the USEPA did not properly prepare an agenda prior to the call. Based on the EWA having 25 years of experience in facilitating and hosting meetings and other public information forums, we prepared what should have been our agenda.

As you know the USEPA and the paid contractors forced us to use the one we were sent only a few minutes before the meeting. This is why this process will continue to fail. While I know there are some people who want to continue this cycle of failure I am not one of them.

We need to have an organized and well prepared team to navigate the community through the USEPA's remediation process. The last minute agenda thrown together by the USEPA and sent out moments before the call was clearly an attempt to keep what should have been the agenda from being used.

What I expect and demand is that the regulators and elected officials read the rules and regulations and follow them!

If anyone on this e-mail chain or the call thinks anything will change for the better by continuing this cycle of failure you are poorly mistaken.

My comments and recommendations are not personal, they are professional and based on decades of experience in communities large and small. I have seen communities made whole again when they work together, are given accurate information and participate fully in the decision making process.

That is impossible at the Ringwood Mines Superfund Site with the current structure mind set and resources being committed by those tasked with protecting human health and the environment from corporate vampires who want nothing more than to finish the job they began many decades ago. I will send my comments to Judy Talbot and send out a formal structure for how we can move forward and help this community stop this ongoing toxic assault.

Respectfully,
Robert Spiegel

Hi all,

Please find attached EWA's agenda for today's 10:30 am conference call; Bob Spiegel and I worked on this agenda as no structure for the call has been provided. We wanted to maximize our time and energy so that this call will be meaningful and address some of the serious deficiencies in how EPA and the contractors have been interacting with the community and other stakeholders.
